The Daily Courant.

Saturday, June 23. 1705.

From the Paris Gazette, dated June 27.

Madrid, June 11.

THere is no conſiderable News from the Frontier, unleſs that the Enemy's Army continued to march towards Badajox; and that the Troops that were drawn together from ſeveral Quarters where they had been poſted, were advancing to oppoſe their Enterprizes. Don Juan Miguelez, Inquiſitor of the Supreme Council, is made Preſident of the Audience of Granada: Moſt of thoſe that were concern'd in the abominable Conſpiracy, to ſet that Town on Fire, in the time of the ſolemn Proceſſion of the holy Sacrament, are put into Priſon. The 10th Inſtant the Marquis de Laganez was by Order of his Majeſty ſiez'd at Buen-Retiro by Prince Tſerclaes de Tilly, and is conducted to Pampelona by 30 Men of the Life-Guard. His Secretary is likewiſe taken into Cuſtody, as are alſo ſome others of his Servants. Seals are put upon the Doors of his Houſe, and all his Papers are ſiez'd. His Catholick Majeſty thought fit to uſe this Precaution, having a ſuſpicion he held a criminal Correſpondence with the Enemies of the State. The Grandees, the Nobility, and the People have on this Occaſion given freſh Demonſtration of their Fidelity and Zeal.

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated June 30.

From the Camp at Lauterberg, June 22. The Marſhall de Marſin came out of his Lines ſome days ago, with 9 or 10000 Men and 20 Cannon. He is poſted between the Village of Dorbach and the Cloyſter of St. Walburg, having 3 Rivulets before him, and behind the Lines and Forreſt of Haguenau. 'Tis believ'd his deſign is to conſume the Forrage on that ſide; and 'tis talk'd he expects to be rejoin'd by the Troops he ſent to the Marſhal de Villars.

From the Harlem Courant, dated June 30.

Maeſtricht, June 27. The Marquis d' Alegre with his Detachment repaſs'd the Maeſe the 24th Inſtant, at Huy: He is now encamp'd at Val Notre Dame, where 6 Battalions from ſeveral Garriſons have join'd him. The Detachment from the Marſhal de Villars's Army for the Netherlands, [conſiſting beſides the Troops of the King's Houſhold, of 12 Battalions of French, 3 of Swiſs, 3 Regiments of Horſe, and 2 of Dragoons, as the Advices from Triers of the 22d of June tell us,] came to Baſtogne the 24th Inſtant. Juſt now Advice is come, that the French having ſent their Artillery and Ammuuition up to Namur, and burnt the Faſcines they had provided to uſe in the Siege of the Citadel of Liege, withdrew out of the Town and Neighbourhood of Liege, at 2 a Clock this Morning, without beat of Drum, and are retir'd towards Tongres.

From the Harlem Courant, dated June 30.

From the Army commanded by Monſieur d' Auverquerque, encamp'd at Caſtro, June 27. This Morning very early, the Enemy withdrew their Men out of the Town of Liege: And between 3 and 4 a Clock their whole Army march'd, paſs'd the Jaar between Lanef and Tongres, and are encamp'd between Bommerſhoven and Oray. The Detachment from the Moſelle, of the King's Houſhold Troops, and other Forces, were to arrive to Day on this ſide Marche en Famine; and are ſpeedily to be follow'd by a 2d. Detachment from the Marſhal de Villars.

P. S. 'Tis advis'd, the Enemy have put 500 Men into Tongres.

'Maeſtricht, June 29. The 15th Inſtant the Duke 'of Marlborough advanc'd with the Horſe from 'Dreyborn to Duren, where his Grace found the 'Earl of Orkney already arriv'd with the Detach'ment of Foot. Here his Grace had notice from 'Monſieur d' Auverquerque that the Enemy were 're-embarking their Artillery, in order to retire from 'Liege; whereupon his Grace halted with the 'Horſe the 26th, but order'd the Detachment of 'Foot to advance. General Churchil join'd us this 'day with the reſt of the Foot. The 27th his Grace 'left orders for all the Troops to advance by eaſier 'Marches; and came hither about Noon, being re'ceiv'd with a tripple Diſcharge of the Artillery, and 'great Expreſſians of Joy from all People. His 'Grace alighted at the Houſe of the Deputies of the 'States, and went with them to the Camp, where 'they din'd with Monſieur d' Auverquerque, We 'found the Enemy were retir'd the ſame Morning to 'Tongres; whereupon his Grace has taken Mea'ſures with the Generals to paſs the Jaar on Wedne'ſday the 1ſt of July, and march directly to them: 'But it being to be fear'd they will immediately re'tire into their Lines, the Artillery is already em'barking, in order to retake Huy, if the Enemy de'cline an Engagement. This Morning my Lord 'Duke had Advice by an Expreſs from Coblentz, 'that the Palatins and the Troops of Weſtphalia 'had abandoned Treves: His Grace has had no 'Letter yet from Lieutenant General d' Auback to 'inform him what may have induc'd him to it.

From the Paris Letter, dated June 26.

Paris, June 26. The laſt Letters from the Camp near Badajox advis'd, that the Enemy had not yet made any Motion that ſhew'd them to have a deſign on that Place. They had only detach'd 500 Horſe and 2 Battallions to guard a Ford of the Guadiana that is on their Right, and had ſent ſome Troops over that River. The Marſhal de Theſſe was every day on Horſeback to obſerve their Motions; and the Parties he ſent out for Intelligence, and the Deſerters that came over to him, aſſur'd him the Engliſh and Dutch complain'd they wanted both Proviſions and Pay. The King of Spain having Information given him by ſeveral Perſons that a Conſpiracy was form'd againſt him and the Queen, unmov'd made this Anſwer, " If they are Forreigners that have a Deſign " againſt my Life, my People will defend me; if " Spaniards, I am in their Hands, God's Will be " done. At the ſame time Monſieur Amelot and his Majeſty's Council having repreſented that it was for the Good of the Crown that a ſtrict Eye ſhould be kept on thoſe who were ſuſpected of having a Hand in this deteſtable Treaſon; the Marquis de Leganez was narrowly watch'd, and was diſcover'd to be the principal Conſpirator. The better to carry on his Deſign, he ask'd Leave of the King to go for ſome days for Air to one of his Country Seats, his Majeſty granting it told him he hop'd the Air would contribute to the Recovery of his Health; but a few Moments after, ſent for him, feigning he had ſome orders to give him relating to his Office of General of the Artillery: As he was entring his Majeſty's Apartment, Prince Tſerclaes ſiez'd him, put him into a Coach, and carried him out at a back Gate with all Diſpatch: About a Quarter of a League off, freſh Horſes were plac'd ready, and others were provided at proper Diſtance, as were alſo ſeveral Guards, ſo that he was gone a long way, before the News of his being ſiez'd at Buen-Retiro was rumour'd abroad. This Conſpiracy was to have been executed by about 500 Engliſh, Dutch, Germans, and Huſſars, who were diſpers'd in Madrid feigning themſelves Deſerters, and who frequented the Houſe of the Marquis de Leganez on Pretence of receiving Subſiſtance from him. They were to ſieze the King and Queen, and carry them to Lisbon; and the ſame day the Arch-Duke was to be proclaim'd in ſeveral Towns of the Kingdom. The Marquis being repreach'd with his Crime, made no other Anſwer than that he had not taken an Oath of Fidelity to the King. At the ſame Time 'tis very certain he had kiſs'd his Majeſty's Hand; and beſides he could not enter upon ſo important an Office, as that of General (or Maſter) of the Artillery, without taking an Oath. His Papers are under Examination, and his Servants are interrogated. Some ſay he will be carried to Bayone, others that he will be confin'd in the Caſtle call'd Trompette at Bourdeaux.

An Expreſs from the Grand Prior of France, has brought Advice, that Prince Eugene of Savoy has found a Paſſage by the Lake of Iſeo; but that he obſerves him ſo narrowly, that he hopes to pen him up among the Mountains of the Bergamaſc. The Letters that came from Moſcolino before this Expreſs, tell us the Grand Prior had with him 40 Battalions, and that there were but 5 Battalions left on the Mincio, 2 of which were French, and 4 on the Oglio all Spaniards. We impatiently expect News from the Duke of Vendome, it being believ'd he is before Turin; for we have Advice that the Duke of Savoy's Troops have abandon'd Chivas, and that the Duke de la Feuillade was to join the Duke of Vendome the 19th Inſtant.

'Tis rumour'd the Marſhal de Marſin is advanc'd towards the Lines of Lauterbourg. 'Tis certain he is in Motion on ſome Enterprize, that may oblige the Prince of Baden to recall his Troops that march'd towards the Moſelle.

The Marſhal de Villars writes, the Prince of Baden threatens to make an Irruption into the 3 Biſhopricks; but that he hopes to prevent the Execution of his Threats, The ſudden Return of the Duke of Marlborough has caus'd the Attack of the Citadel of Liege to be ſuſpended: The Marſhal de Villeroy is diſpoſing his Army to receive the Enemy.

A Report is ſpread, of a great Diſaſter befallen the Confederate Fleet.
